

Malacañang warned vs fertilizer scam cover-up

By Philip C. Tuliao

SENIOR VETERINARY MEDICAL AGENCIES against preventing officials failed to do so, according to a Senate inquiry, saying any cover-up would be held in this point.

Senate President Franklin Drilon and Sen. Antonio Maguiness said the failure should result in a Senate Order that which bans officials of the executive branch from appearing before the House investigation.

"In the light of the revelation of Malacañang and executive cover-up for the fertilizer scam, we are calling on Malacañang to either order or suspend the implementation of its security Order 464 so that those public officials who participate in the fertilizer scam, Drilon and Maguiness said in a joint statement.

The two senators noted that former Department of Agriculture (DA) Secretary and now Presidential Assistant for Job Creation and Growth, Sen. Antonio Maguiness and now Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) Vice President Ramon Pajala and Secretary DA Undersecretary, Isidoro Gamboa have been denied EO 464 as their events for refusing to testify before the Senate inquiry.

Refuge under EO 464

"By allowing these officials refuge under EO 464, Malacañang is not only giving public perception that it is actively involved in a full-scale cover-up attempt," they said.

These officials, Drilon and Maguiness added, were "illegally involved" in the administration of the fertilizer fund which the opposition claimed was directed to increase the recovery of President Macapagal-Arroyo in the May 2004 elections.

Former DA Undersecretary Joseph "Bong" Beland, a close associate of Vice President Mike Arroyo, was the alleged chief architect of the fertilizer fund program. Beland had previously modified the Senate hearings.

Drilon and Maguiness asked President Arroyo to give the House committee "full and unlimited access" to all DA and the Department of Budget and Management records on the fertilizer project.

The Commission on Audit (COA) had confirmed that the fertilizer used in the GMAA program was supplied by at least P127 million.

COA records showed that more than 100 tonnes of Hypocrotona seedlings, 31 government and 26 tons, were received between P3 million and P30 million each in fertilizer funds from the DA shortly before the May 2004 elections.

Senate Minority Leader Aquilino Pimentel III said evidence showed that the fund scam should come clean instead of creating a "cover-up" to "hide their role" in the scam.

Pimentel said the public officials in dispute the difference in the Senate inquiry is that they prevent the commission of the law from being exposed and that the purchased fertilizer supplies were grossly overpriced.

Baland and his counsel as a "lawyer" in the House of Representatives of the House of Representatives, Benigno Aquino III, and the congressmen and local officials.

On Friday, Drilon challenged the Office of the Undersecretary for Fertilizer to open investigation and file a graft charges against DA and local government officials involved in the fertilizer scam.

Occupancy of hotels up 5% in 2005

By Jerome Auring

THE DEPARTMENT OF TOURISM (DOT) said that the overall average occupancy rate of hotels in Metro Manila last year rose to 71.81 percent, an increase of 5.09 percent from the previous level in 2004.

DOT secretary for planning and tourism promotion Eduardo Lopez Jr. attributed the increase to the holding of the 23rd Southeast Asian Games and more seminars and conventions held in the country, as well as the rise in the number of walk-in visitors and independent travelers.

For January-November 2005, there were 166,000 hotel room nights and more guests staying in hotels than in the same period in 2004. Lopez said he has reported to Secretary Joseph E. Estrada.

For last November, the highest occupancy of 75.61 percent while first class hotels recorded a 60.20 percent. The third place, hotels classified as standard, posted only 48.33 percent but guests stayed longer than in other types of hotels.

The overall average length of stay in hotels was 2.37 nights, up from 2.32 nights in 2004. The average of stay in the second only was posted at 2.32 nights while the average was 2.45.

OUR AD AGENCY WANTED THIS IN FULL COLOR, BUT WE WANTED EVERYTHING IN BLACK AND WHITE.

It's not because we're a conventional company that doesn't have the finest sense of fun. It's just that this ad talks about our Satisfaction Guaranteed Program which is so revolutionary, we can't afford matters like you getting the wrong size. We want it to be as transparent as possible, what you see is what you get.

One of the programs is our Network Quality Guarantee in Metro Atlanta (the program runs starts March 1). Let's say, we stated on the service level agreement—that's correct in layman's terms—between Bayan/Tel and your company, that your data network will be up and running 99.9% of the time. It will be up and running 99.9% of the time. Nothing less.

We can't do that for that because our network across the country is consistent and quite predictable, not really big on surprises. And if by chance, your data network experiences hiccup, we would restore it within the agreed time. If we don't, we'll automatically waive one (1) full day of your Monthly Service Fee for every 4-hour delay.

GUARANTEED NETWORK PERFORMANCE OR GET SERVICES FOR FREE

Best of all, this guarantee rests upon a per circuit or unbundled basis. Meaning, if we fail to restore even one of your many circuits in time, you can avail of rebates or credits on a per circuit basis. Learn more about this guarantee of ours by calling 800-449-9999 or 1711 from any Bayan/Tel phone nationwide.

For companies like yours which depend on their systems to be able to fully operate, the slightest glitch can mean big monetary loss; we can't afford to be risk takers now, can we?

But the bottom line here isn't about being late and making friends. The fact that we're offering a guarantee whose very foundation lies on being on time shows that we do understand that a few minutes of downtime can make any IT manager shed cold sweat. And we do care, so expect us to be there on the dot everytime.

It's all about doing what we said we would. And doing something about it still, if we don't.
It's that clear. It's that simple.

A MASTERPLANNED MASTERPIECE TAKES SHAPE

A masterpiece neighborhood in Portofino

Brittany Corporation is sculpting the masterplan for

Portofino, Alabama
into a masterpiece.

Across its 300 hectares, all of Portofino's enclaves—Portofino Heights and Portofino South, the enclaves for custom homesites, Conestoga I and II of Portofino, the enclaves for country homes, and The WhitelockSM of Portofino, the custom home sites with wide frontage—are progressing at a fast pace.

The courtyard provides the outdoor with indoor.

Amenities are rapidly developing as well. The pools, inspired by Roman baths, and the Club House provide for a life of leisure. And even a commercial area will rise right in between Portofino Heights and Portofino South.

The Italian inspiration, the theme that unifies the Portofino masterplan, is clearly evident in the homes' one-of-a-kind culture, stone cladding, arches and other architectural details.

The location makes for easy access to the nearby commercial area, business district, leisure destinations, schools and hospitals.

With the enclaves and amenities, the central location, and its unique property with theme, Brittany puts together all the masterful strokes that make Portofino a masterpiece in property development.

74 dreams crushed

The victims included six babies, 15 pregnant women, 100 others, entire families in neighborhoods who since Monday had taken shelter in porches or steps on stairways and newspapers in the open street leading to the gates of the house.

Many of the dead were women crushed against a closed steel gate at the bottom of a slope or a simple underpass. At least one child was killed, hospital officials said.

Ferry ablaze for hours before it sank

AN EGYPTIAN woman sits at the entrance of the port of Sidi Barrani. A group of people wait for news of survivors from the sinking ferry. (AP)

SARAGA, EGYPT—RESCUE BOATS HAVE PICKED UP 405 SURVIVORS from the Egyptian ferry that sank in the Red Sea after a fire on board, police in this port said Saturday. Most of the ship's 1,400 passengers and crew are listed dead.

Investigators are still working to determine the fire's connection to the sinking, the minister, Mohamed Loutfy Hassan, said Saturday. He described the fire as "small" and said there was no explosion on the vessel, which soon disappeared from sight.

Shaw said the fire began early today, between 10 minutes to 2 P.M. hours after departure according to witness accounts—but the ship kept going and the fire burned for hours. "The accounts varied on the location of the fire, with some mentioning a staircase or engine room."

"They decided to keep going. It's explosion," one witness, Abdul Wahid, said before he was moved along by police, who tried to keep the witnesses from talking to journalists.

"It was like the Titanic on fire," another one claimed. Ahmed Elwan, an Egyptian in his 20s, said he went to the ship's crew to report the fire and they told him to help with the water hoses to put it out. At one point there was an explosion, he said.

When the ship began sinking, Elwan said he jumped into the water and swam for several hours. He said he saw one lifeboat involved but wasn't sure whether it was involved with people. He eventually got into another lifeboat. "Several men were dying and sinking," he said.

Several witnesses stressed in interviews their anger over slow rescue efforts. "They left us in the water for 24 hours. A helicopter came above us and started, we would signal and they ignored us," one man claimed. "The fire was the trigger in the world," another said.

A spokesman for President Hosni Mubarak said the ferry did not have enough lifeboats, and questions were raised about the safety of the 20-year-old, retired ship that was weighed down with 200 cars as well as the passengers.

"Six million, not all lives and there is big question mark over the ability of this kind of ship," said David Oles of the London shipping paper Lloyd's List. "It would indicate size of water to get on board this ship and it would be all over... The percentage of this type of fire is related to this type of disaster is huge."

Whether any also have been a factor. There were high winds and a sudden swell on board before the vessel sank.

Embattled Thai PM says he'll quit if king asks

BANGKOK—THAI PRIME MINISTER THAKSIN CHACCHAPONGJIT said he would quit if the king asked him to, as he sought to defuse claims of corruption that could lead to his dismissal.

Thaksin said he would not resign if the king asked him to, but he would accept the king's decision.

"I will not resign if the king asks me to, but I will accept the king's decision," he said in an interview with Prachin.

Thaksin also gave a detailed defense of his family's commercial role in the Thai Corp., the telecom giant that he founded, ending a week of public outcry over the $1.5-billion deal with Singapore's state-owned investment firm Temasek.

Protesters led by Senchai Wattana Thaksin were seen on a street in Bangkok, some carrying a Thai flag, and others a Thai flag with a Thai Corp. logo.

The Thai Corp. controversy has overshadowed Thaksin's critics and fueled his government, with the cabinet minister resigning Friday over accusations about "ethics in government."

Thaksin's plan to privatize Thailand's telecom giant (Shin Mobile) to merge it, in hopes that a capital market could pressure the private to end its subsidies.

The king has no official power to sack the prime minister, but he holds great influence over Thai society.

Thaksin accused Senchai of working wrong over a failed business venture, in which Senchai had borrowed heavily from a non-credit institution that was his last resort for liquidity.

"We cannot go into the television business," he explained. He said the deal, Thaksin said, "Then he accused me of not protecting him. But I have to take responsibility and business my work, which is not my fault. It is not the king's fault," he added.

The private also accused Senchai of not taking responsibility in a controversy, saying he wanted the money to be used properly.

Thaksin said he would not resign if the king asked him to, but he would accept the king's decision.

US to make long-range arms as hedge against China

WASHINGTON...THE UNITED STATES will build new long-range weapons in a budget quarter potential rivals like China, the major power best placed to challenge US supremacy, the Pentagon said on Wednesday.

The plan also would boost US special forces by 15 percent to fight terror hotspots, a military task force to thwart enemies of America, biological and nuclear weapons and regional psychological warfare capabilities.

The Pentagon released the comprehensive Quadrennial Defense Review to outline its strategy for coming anticipated security changes in the next 20 years.

The Pentagon came at a time of strain for the US military with 100,000 troops fighting a nearly 3-year-old war in Iraq and thousands more in Afghanistan, mostly in the Middle East.

It said the choice of "major emerging powers," including India, Russia and China, would be key in the 21st century international security environment.

"Of the major and emerging powers, China has the greatest potential to compete militarily with the United States and field dangerous military technology that could over time offset buildup of US military advantage across US counter strategies," the document said.

The United States is eager to level off any dominance with China over Taiwan, the self-governing island off China's coast, one which Beijing claims sovereignty. China has vowed to attack Taiwan if it is finally declared independent.

The report said China was likely to continue making large investments in such weapons as ballistic and cruise missiles, air defense systems and submarines, adding, "The pace and scope of Chinese military buildup already poses regional military imbalance risks."

The United States seeks to dissuade China and others from developing capabilities that could threaten regional stability and to deter aggression if deterrence failed, the report said.

Referring to China's large territory and a lack of US bases in the area, the Pentagon said it plans to continue to "have capable of sustained operations at great distances."

The Pentagon, unveiled before Monday's delivery to Congress of a 2007 defense budget request, of $397.2 billion, recommended a new long-range "bomber" capability to be fielded by 2015 and modernizing the current bomber force.

The new capability could include manned or unmanned bombers as well as directed-energy weapons such as lasers.

The Pentagon Air Command Commission began a yearlong analysis of options such as a capability to destroy a hostile missile in flight, while doubling to two the number of armed reconnaissance aircraft by 2012.

The Pentagon cited what it called the "increasing concern of Russia in the past 10 years."

"When I was on Sept. 11, 2001, I can tell you that the US forces in all probability will be equipped somewhere in the world to the very degree where they're self-sufficient," senior Pentagon policy official Dan Fering told reporters. The document said both Russia and developing nuclear, chemical and biological weapons and sending weapons overseas.

It also laid out developing long-range missile and strategic assets of producing nuclear weapons.

To counter terrorist networks, it said the Pentagon will increase special operations forces by 25 percent from the current 32,000 and boost the number of special forces battalions by a third. These forces, a branch of Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, are now highly trained and capable of acting on more sensitive operations than regular forces.

The document called for creating intelligence units to keep better track of emerging threats of mass destruction, and spending $1.5 billion over five years to develop medical countermeasures to great earthquakes.

The plan would increase purchases of unmanned aircraft like the Predator and the Global Hawk. Given, nearly doubling surface-to-surface capabilities. It also would expand psychological operations and civil affairs units by a third.

Ex-Cheney aide to face trial in CIA leak case

WASHINGTON...A FEDERAL JUDGE ON FRIDAY set a January 2007 trial date for a former top White House aide facing perjury and other charges in the leak of a CIA operative's identity, pushing the trial past President Bush's congressional deadline.

The judge said jury selection would begin in June. It is the case of Lewis "Scooter" Libby, Vice President Dick Cheney's former chief of staff. He denies five counts of perjury, making false statements and obstruction of justice.

Libby, who attended the meeting, has pleaded no guilty to the charges, which stem from a special prosecutor's investigation into who in the Bush administration leaked CIA operative Valerie Plame's identity to the news media in 2003, effectively ending her career as a foreign agent.

His identity was disclosed after his husband, Supreme Court Justice William, accused the Bush administration of twisting intelligence on weapons of mass destruction to justify the war in Iraq.

President George W. Bush's main political adviser, Karl Rove, remains under investigation in the Plame case.

A trial could put a spotlight on how the White House made its case for the Iraq war and raise questions about the role of the news media and whether reporters should have to testify in court.

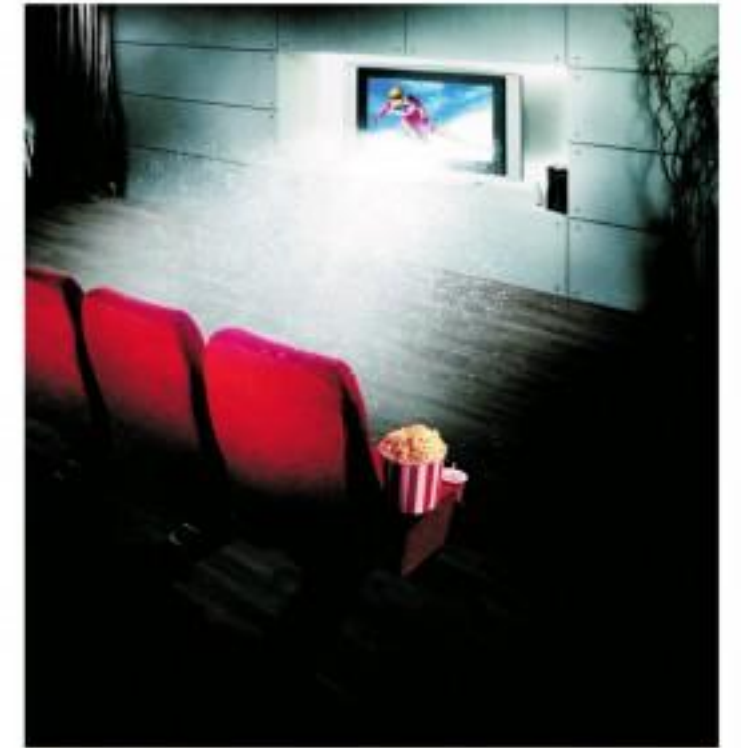

Lawyers on both sides of Libby's case said they needed time to examine classified government materials, resolve a dispute over what evidence should be shared and address legal issues over the involvement of reporters who may have been involved in the case.

Fighting the good fight vs poverty

By Tina Brown-Gundes
Philippine Daily Inquirer

ON DEC. 16, 1998, 50 OF the country's top businessmen put their energies together to fight a common enemy: Poverty. The weapon? Philippine Business for Social Progress.

In less than 30 years since that inaugural meeting at the Hotel Intercontinental, we have again poverty continues, said PSEF and Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. chair Manuel V. Pangilinan during the 30th anniversary celebration last week.

Many hurdles, however, have been won. But business corporations have gone beyond simple check writing and charity work, and now consider corporate social responsibility with their corporate vision and mission, with PSEF as the prime example.

From 1971 to 2000, their portfolio of 19.4 billion in total program assistance, going to 5,641 projects and reaching 1.27 million beneficiaries.

This represents perhaps the single largest block of private sector funds managed and disbursed by one institution to the poor and marginalized sectors of the economy, making PSEF a model for business sector participation to development efforts in the region.

In build on these successes, Pangilinan said that this year, PSEF would intensify its efforts at poverty reduction in four areas: Area resource management, basic education, information technology, water and health and micro and small enterprise development.

He added that PSEF would continue reaching out to the Asian Forum of the Philippines by providing scholarship and education assistance, a mobile library closer to battle areas, benefits for the Presidential Security Group, working under the General Strategic program and financial and strategic planning to the Philippine Military Academy.

Fulfilling these ambitious goals would require money, and Pangilinan

The world is, indeed, getting smaller with the advancement of communications technology. There are just as many options out there for finding the best way aggressive with its product presentation that this is still a viable market.

In a unique effort to launch the Nokia 7260, 7270 and 7280, the NBC 'Best at The Best' was converted into an inspiring and interactive setting with floating, draped fabric for an intimate, room-like it's never been done before poetry-reading environment, all designed by London 2012/2008 Grace.

Arriving late on sound, I thought the fashion show was done and people were just milling around waiting for the traffic to clear away. One's surprise, then didn't have a show but instead parties with two other designers across the hall. After the performance that resulted in a big audience was more challenging than designing a Gianni collection.

Summer Heat of Idaho, they would be having the next two hottest days in March, so Baker decided to introduce the phones using this very different concept. It might have been different had it correctly turned more attention on the phones, although I must admit I was also concentrating on the past-awarded food created by my food expert Marguerite Stone.

It was also my type of party because there were no many rules or creepy gimmicks. I came home with crystal bracelets and all those things.

I was hoping to write in the mid- to last two-thirds this time. Luckily, holiday demands got a severe notice until sometime in the future.

signs have generally ended the season, everyone has a different shirt based on their date and time of birth for this year, most Indians are going to have a better year financially and this is also a good year to get married.

In summary, it is not an acceptable year for dragons, so protection should be used. But aside all the other bad news we are all doing, I hope all of us, as gardeners of almost any, will have a wonderful year ahead!

Love has made him a wanted man

BLUESMEX

My father has been a widower for almost two years now. The problem is he got involved with a married woman in our house.

Now her family is suing them both for adultery. They even caught a servant for an illicit affair.

All my life I've seen how a single man going to jail for adultery has been understood. It is, in fact, the woman in the only one considering adultery, not my father.

At the moment, they are hiding somewhere far away from our province. My father loves this woman but I know their relationship is very wrong.

The family said they would forgive him, but not my father. They would put him in jail if he tried to return to our home.

What is the law on this?

Father has some of us not familiar with the law aware that being single except on from being called an adulterer.

EMELY'S POST

Emily A. Morrell

According to a legal consultant, adultery is considered a criminal crime. This crime can be committed only with the cooperation or participation of another party.

What is interesting, however, is that only a woman can be held liable for adultery as the offense is defined as having sex with a man other than the legitimate husband.

But, from a father's point of view, sexual partners have to be asked for a more informed person, though the law might be more and stricter at this stage.

How did the problem get to be this big? What is the woman's relationship with her husband? What is the woman's relationship with her husband? What is the woman's relationship with her husband?

More importantly, is there a law of adultery in the Philippines? Is it a crime?

I can't believe the legal system of your father's office has moved in your favor in the age of technology and providing information. It just shows how much more we need to improve in our legal system.

There are no doubt many and others in your life. But, the fact is that you are the only one who is not a man. You are a woman. You are a woman. You are a woman.

There are no doubt many and others in your life. But, the fact is that you are the only one who is not a man. You are a woman. You are a woman. You are a woman.

There are no doubt many and others in your life. But, the fact is that you are the only one who is not a man. You are a woman. You are a woman. You are a woman.

Celebrating the Chinese New Year with SMART Infinity and Anvil

It is our honor to celebrate the Chinese Lunar New Year with the company of some of the most valued friends and clients, who also happen to be the young and promising leaders of the Chinese business community at the Anvil Business Club in Quezon City. SMART Infinity joined in the activities at the elegant dinner reception for the business community members and clients. The evening's activities included an elaborate Chinese dinner, modern Asian pop music and the "Awakening of the Dragon" ceremony led by some other than Vice Mayor Raula, who is on his first term as Quezon City Mayor.

This ancient ceremony is usually conducted in a Taoist temple and its purpose is to cleanse and bless the nation, as well as restoring the strength of the dragon on the

Since its establishment in 1997, Anvil, who has spoken of the prestigious monthly "Anvil Exchange Forum" include former President Corason C. Aquino and other Philippine Presidents as well as his partners. Last year, President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo hosted the business community of Anvil offices in July 2003 at Malacañan Palace with 150 government, business and Anvil members present. Other special guests who have joined the Anvil Business Club include business leaders like Jovito Salazar, Jr., Juanito Salazar, Anvil's Vice President and other officials.

In December 2004, the annual Anvil Chinese dinner reception was cancelled by its present leaders in order to donate funds to victims of the Quezon province flood disaster through Philippine National Red Cross led by Chairman Senator Richard Gordon. Then just last December, Anvil leaders again celebrated their Chinese dinner reception to donate money for a fire medicine and social relief to an 1800 when families of Marikina City in connection with Marikina Mayor Marikina Carlos Peralta and the multi-national Marikina (Gardens) Charity Foundation.

SMART Infinity is proud to be associated with a prestigious and humane organization such as Anvil and hopes that the example they set will be an inspiration for others to follow suit.

The ground beneath your feet

AS FAR AS FLOORS GO, VARIOUS SHADINGS OF brown—from light to dark—will continue to dominate the interior design scene this year. In line with Filipino homeowners' prevailing penchant for the Asian Fusion look, the demand for laminated and wood-veneer floors is also likely to get bigger.

Modern Fusion is simply a mixture of traditional, Indonesian, Thai, Filipino and various Asian elements," says architect and interior designer Shonda Tapado, CEO of Inn Design Inc. (0471217 and 0470503). "Filipino are good at mixing up a lot of things, which often results in something really beautiful."

After having their fill of lac and Modern Fusion inspired interior for several years, Filipino isn't next to have enough of this Fusion and Contemporary Asian floor design. Speaking of contemporary, the new big thing in interior design is Contemporary Scandinavian, but Tapado doubts that such a minimalist look will completely catch on in the Philippines.

THE LOOK and feel of wood for floors

Whether elaborate or tame, interiors are tied together by floor design

RKD Redwood: When's pale hue is a perfect foil for the dark walls and drapes in the Chameleon Village home.

The ground beneath your feet

"While Filipinos," she says, "tend not at once to have kind of home or modification. We will always find ways to make a look uniquely Filipino by adapting it with our own taste."

But whether or not one chooses minimalist over elaborate interiors, one of the keys that tie a certain look together is the floor. And one of the best sources of locally manufactured flooring materials is Apo Floor, which Fujita de la Cruz found at the time she got with others to create the interior design firm.

"I don't have any particular floor for when it comes to home," she says. "Most of the time, the choice depends on the owner's budget and where he or she intends to use a particular material."

For the living room, Fujita, of course, favors warm and soft, teakwood flooring materials. Bedrooms can use a bit of "neutral" via woods or floors or their laminated equivalents. Proper selection of materials serves owners best, she says, because it is the floor.

Choosing the right floor isn't a problem, as Apo offers a wide catalog of floor tiles in various sizes, colors and materials. In the end, the choice depends on the owner's budget and where he or she intends to use a particular material.

Versatile

Apo's vinyl tiles are also low maintenance, which makes them popular among busy homeowners and working women. Soap, water and a mop will do the trick of their care and the vinyl floor (because look) or the polished floor. When it comes to the company's so-called laminated materials, they are made of wood and have consistent colors from top to bottom.

"The good thing about vinyl tiles is its versatility," says Fujita. "Through its design, you have the look of wood or stone, but you can make several variations using the same materials."

RKD Redwood: Apo is designed for high-traffic areas such as this corridor.

While the ceramic counter tops, vinyl tiles can be made up and installed manually by an expert. Such is the case with designers to mix and match vinyl tiles to create colors, shapes and patterns.

Apart from the brand's more popular and extensive laminated vinyl tiles, the company is also known for its laminated floors. The line has the look of natural marble, granite and stone, but comes much less and is easier to install than the real thing.

If you go for the most look, Apo also offers a special line of laminated "marble" wood. The brand's natural comes in such warm shades of antique mahogany, stained oak, grey maple, red cherry and a host of other "natural" colors. Laminated wood has especially become such a hit in a number of high-end condominiums in Makati and big houses in Ayala Alabang.

For more decorating information, Apo has come up with its so-called registered wood under the brand name Redwood. The material is made of various shades of wood, laminated together to form one plane. Its texture and its Redwood's texture and ability to withstand wear are due to its bonding.

"Redwood falls under registered products," Fujita explains. "It's not laminated using any wood that has been bonded together. They just cement it to the floor in a good finish. There are quite a number of registered products in the market, but don't allow yourself to be misled."

But whatever else you go for, be sure to get an expert. It's not a simple matter to design your floor.

"If you're properly applied, vinyl flooring can last for years," says Fujita. "But you have the most expensive tile, but with every application and lack of maintenance, they end up looking cheap."
